

About the Author

J.M. Frank's short stories have been published in numerous literary magazines; he has also written three novels, published under pseudonyms. His nonfiction work has been widely cited and published in peer-reviewed, scientific journals, mainstream newspapers, government websites and blogs, as well as radio and television programs across the U.S.

He holds both a Ph.D. and MBA and has worked in the academic, government, nonprofit, and business sectors. His recent work has focused on creating advanced statistical modeling for both the tech industry and the entertainment field and he is co-founder and researcher of an animal welfare research and education foundation.